Walk 3:
Two stiles and follow the way markers to a rough track. Follow the waymarkers across the track to another footpath leading up hill along the field edge. The path descends again down to a drain that crosses the path. At this point the route ascends up a fairly steep hill towards woodland. At the top of the path almost doubles back on itself, descending to the northern field corner. From here, follow the markers north; cross over a stile and then head for the corner of the hedge in front of you. Cross another stile and walk down through two fields to a tennis court.
Halfway up the left side of the court cross into a field and walk diagonally across to another stile. Turn right following the markers through the garden of a Carr (a small wetland wood). Follow the path down to the canal and over the bridge.
On the left you can see the pattern of ridge and furrow, remnants of old farming technique. Eventually you arrive at a sluice on your left then pass over an aqueduct. Shortly after the aqueduct, climb over a stile, passing through the hedge on your right. A permissive path then takes you down to the hedgelets, Smeeton to the north-east and Westerby to the south-west. Most of the houses in the village date back to the 16th century and have kept many of their original features.
Walk 4:
5½ km (3½ miles), allow 1½ hours, easy walking through open countryside and along the Grand Union Canal. Considerably along Mill Lane Smeeton Westerby is located 1 km south of Kibworth Beauchamp. Until around the 18th century Smeeton and Westerby were considered two distinct villages until it reaches Kibworth. On the other side, turn immediately right down a small embankment and right again through a gateway onto the Grand Union Canal towpath. Walk under the bridge you have just crossed and along the towpath until you reach the Saddington Tunnel.
Towards woodland. At the top the path almost doubles back on itself, descending to the southern end of the Manor. Once at the track turn left following the markers into the small lane leading to The Manor. Cross the stile on the right and follow the path around the northern side of the Manor. Once at the track turn left and follow the bridleway signs across the field.
Walk up the track until it turns sharply left, at this point walk straight on through the hedge and follow the markers into the small lane leading to The Manor. Cross the stile on the right and follow the path around the northern side of the Manor. Once at the track turn left and follow the bridleway signs across the field.
At the bottom of the hill, cross a rough track and walk straight on keeping the hedge on your right. Follow the markers past you until you reach a stile; climb this and carry straight on to reach Harborough Road. Retrace your steps along New Road back to the car park.
